

Explanation

Each subsequent section in this document contains the sentences “Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet. Consectetur adipisicing elit.” repeated four times. The first time, the sentence is unmodified. The second time, the draft note “[ASZ: 1]” is inserted somewhere in the sentence, as specified in the section name. The third time, this draft note is replaced with the two draft notes “[ASZ: 1][TeX: 2]”, with no intervening space. The fourth time, those two draft notes are separated with a space: “[ASZ: 1] [TeX: 2]”.

If this document is typeset with `\drafttrue`, then the notes will be visible. If this document is instead typeset with `\draftfalse`, all four lines (or paragraph pairs, in the final case) will look identical, demonstrating that these commands completely vanish when the document is not in draft mode (not even leaving stray spaces behind).

This document was typeset in non-draft mode (i.e., with `\draftfalse`).
